UN Security Council Resolution 2461 – UN Electoral Support to Somalia

On 27 March 2019, the UN Security Council unanimously passed Resolution 2461, which extends the mandate of the United Nations Assistance Mission in Somalia (UNSOM) until 31 March 2020, emphasizes the UN's "political, technical, operational and logistical support to the federal government for the delivery of inclusive, peaceful, free and fair one-person-one-vote elections in 2020/2021". UNSCR 2461 underlines in particular the UN's support to National Independent Electoral Commission (NIEC) at national and sub-national levels, for the Commission to fulfil its constitutional mandate in line with its Strategic Plan for 2017-2021. The Resolution also specifies the UN's support to a nationwide voter registration exercise in early 2020 and consequent polling operations for the 2020/2021 elections, as well as the coordination of international electoral support to Somalia. While the Security Council welcomed the agreement in Baidoa in June 2018 between the Federal Government and the Federal Member States on the electoral system of representation, it expressed concerns about the delay in the passage of the Electoral Law, and urges the Government and Parliament to finalize and adopt the Electoral Law by mid-2019.

During a retreat in Mogadishu from 17 to 19 March, different potential voter registration methodologies and their practical implications were debated at length to identify a system that is most suitable for the context in Somalia. Pros and cons were outlined for different voter registration methodologies, ranging from manual or electronic registration to different forms of biometric registration. The NIEC decided to focus on two options and further elaborate on the details of each. In the upcoming period, after further consultations with key stakeholders, the NIEC will make a formal decision which methodology it selects to register voters. In parallel, on 13 March, IESG held a briefing for key international partners at their request on

On 23 January and 25 February, the NIEC and IESG held electoral information sharing meetings with international electoral stakeholders. The meetings were jointly chaired by the Deputy Special Representative for United Nations Assistance Mission in Somalia (DSRSG) and the NIEC Chairperson Ms. Halima Ibrahim and Ms. Khadija Osoble, NIEC Commissioner. IESG also introduced to international partners its new Chief, Ms. Hiroko Miyamura, who has extensive electoral experience with the UN and was in 2014 in Somalia leading the UN electoral needs assessment mission (NAM)

to establish IESG.

The NIEC Chairperson provided updates on election preparations and pointed out that the gains made in 2019 will determine the readiness for holding credible elections in 2020. The NIEC stated that the success of planned operations in 2019 will depend on adequate and timely funding.

The NIEC also updated on the by-election in Baidoa, registration of the new political parties, NIEC's participation in Arab EMBs conference held in Jordan, the establishment of the election security task force, opening of three new field offices in Garowe, Baidoa and Jowhar, as well as the recruitment of NIEC staff for the field offices.

NIEC Commissioner Ms. Khadija Osoble emphasized that 2019 is a critical year for all stakeholders concerning planning and preparation for voter registration by early 2020. She requested all implementing partners to update on their activities related to elections and stressed the importance of working together to make 2020 elections successful.

Ms. Hiroko Miyamura, the Chief of Integrated Electoral Support Group, outlined IESG's support to the NIEC on electoral preparations including facilitating the NIEC in revising its 2017-2021 Strategic Plan and preparing a zero draft of the voter registration site mapping exercise as well as the voter registration operational plans and budget.

The UNSOM DSRSG reiterated the UN's commitment to support the NIEC's work in preparations for the 2020 elections and underscored the importance of women's participation in electoral processes. He stressed the need for united efforts, determination of the NIEC and strong support from Somali institutions and the international community.

IESG technical assistance and capacity development workshops with NIEC on electoral preparation

To strengthen the NIEC's institutional capacity and electoral knowledge, IESG provided different workshops for NIEC Commissioners and members of the Secretariat, including briefings and discussions on voter registration methodologies and technologies and electoral operational timelines (2 and 6 March), on 'training of electoral master trainers' (3-7 March), on strategic communication (12-14 March), and a high-level workshop on institutional governance, electoral timelines and VR decisions (17-19 March).

The 'Training the Master Trainers' (3-7 March) is a professional development programme, part of the international BRIDGE curriculum (Building Resources in Democracy, Governance and Elections). In combination with a follow-up workshop in April, the training elaborates on the system of master trainers and the mechanics of a cascade training approach which has to ensure proper knowledge transfer, skills development and quality assurance of the implementation of future electoral operations in the field by the thousands of temporary/short-term election workers.

From 18 to 22 February, the newly appointed Secretary-General of the NIEC was invited by the Independent Electoral Commission of South Africa for a study tour to experience first-hand electoral operations and challenges. South Africa is at the apex of preparations for its national and provincial elections planned in May 2019. With support from IESG, the study tour was an opportune time for the SG to learn the behind-the-scenes preparations, planning, leading and coordinating with other stakeholders, with ideas on how best to steer the NIEC on its developmental path in electoral management.
